Ceramic coating for cars is a type of protective layer that is applied to the exterior of a vehicle. It is made up of tiny particles of ceramic, which form a strong bond with the paint on the car. This creates a durable barrier that protects the paint from scratches, UV damage, and other forms of wear and tear. One of the main benefits of ceramic coating is its ability to repel water and dirt. This makes cleaning the car much easier and ensures that the paint stays looking new for longer. Additionally, ceramic coating can give the car a glossy, reflective finish that makes it stand out on the road. It is important to note that ceramic coating is not a substitute for regular car maintenance. While it can protect the paint from damage, it is still important to wash and wax the car regularly to maintain its appearance and prevent corrosion. Overall, ceramic coating is a great investment for anyone looking to protect their car's paint and improve its overall appearance.

C3 coating comes with a multi products with multi layers through which unnecessary external and internal vibrations on coating surface were avoided. These layers acts like a cushion through which peel or failure of products were avoided. Bottom coat is flexible and have a properties of Self-healing which tends to flexible during internal impacts on molecules. Also layers like I-Mediant increases colour darkness and also gives strength to layers applied before. X- Mediant and X- Base were used under Cross-fibre technology which increases the hardness to extreme level and increases brightness up to 20%.
